"George Brown College has been such an important part of my career. All the chefs here are so talented, helpful and inspiring. They always strive to update their skills and equipment with the change in market trends. Here at the Chef School, we learned so many new skills and techniques. They also took us on a study trip to France to enhance our skills. The overall exposure that they gave us was just incredible. If you're thinking of a culinary profession, it should be the Chef School at George Brown."
