

Applications now open for International Baccalaureate students to apply for the fast-tracked University of Sydney High Achievers Preparation Program

 Posted 18 May 2018

The University of Sydney High Achievers Preparation Program (HAPP) is a maximum of 18-weeks taught across two terms, and designed for those students who just missed out on direct entry to university. Students with an International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma can now apply to study the HAPP program.

Entry Requirements to HAPP

IB Diploma

Stream 1 31

Stream 2 27

An intensive English language and academic preparation programme, HAPP will support students during the transition from high school to the first year of university.

Students who commence HAPP in the September 2018 intake, and provided they graduate meeting all entry requirements, can stay on track to start their Bachelor degree at the University of Sydney in March 2019.

Find out more about the University of Sydney HAPP on the website \(https://www.taylorssydney.edu.au/programs/the-high-achievers-preparation-program\) today. Or, download an application for the September 2018 intake.
