Studying at Murdoch
University is about real-world experience.

At Murdoch you'll explore new ways of thinking, discover different perspectives and make a difference by applying cutting edge theory with real-world practice to ensure you're equipped for a successful career. We aim to create and inspire leaders, innovative thinkers and problem solvers.

Make a difference in the world.
Think Murdoch.

› Think friendly community, great environment

At Murdoch University, you're not just a number. You're part of supportive community. The 2016 Good Universities Guide rated us five stars for our staff to student ratio so you will always have access to the support you need throughout your studies.

You will have the opportunity to experience a variety of fun events and activities around campus, as well as gain access to over 100 clubs and societies including our volunteer and buddy programs, run by our student Guild. We also have a dedicated support team on hand, providing you with the help you'll need to excel in your studies.

› Think industry relevant

We work closely with industry, business, the community and government across a range of exciting projects and initiatives, providing you with opportunities to apply your theory in a practical environment. Through work integrated learning, practicum placements, hands-on projects and internship experiences, you will learn exactly what you need to know to meet industry demands and to make a difference in the world.

The 2016 Good Universities Guide rated us 4 stars for our postgraduate starting salary, as we deliver our graduates into some of the highest paid jobs in Australia.

› Think world-class research

Murdoch University research is focussed on international development, strong communities and solving the intractable problems associated with food security, health and sustainable development. We are proud to be a research-led University, committed to meeting global challenges through innovation and inspired thinking. For more than two decades, the Asia Research Centre has been an international leader in the study of East and Southeast Asia, undertaking fundamental disciplinary and interdisciplinary research examining a range of social, political, historical, environmental and economic forces and developments within this dynamic region.

The quality of research undertaken by academics in Murdoch's Asia Research Centre and Schools of Business and Governance, Arts, and Veterinary and Life Sciences, is reflected in the 2015 Excellence in Research for Australia rankings for Politics, History and Environmental Management of 4 (above world standard) and 3 (at world standard), equating to 87 per cent of our research rated as world-class standard or higher.

In addition, QS places Murdoch in its top 200 institutions for Politics, and Agriculture and Forestry (including Fisheries) and the top 50 for Veterinary Science.

› Think globally connected

Ranked 33 in the Times Higher Education Top 100 Most International Universities in the world gives us an edge with our diverse staff and student community.

With campuses in Perth, Dubai and Singapore, we have a very diverse staff and student community, and we proudly support more than 24,000 students from 90 different countries. Our passion for diversity means you'll be sure to find like-minded people on campus, and an assorted range of cuisines to catch up over. We cater to most dietary requirements including vegetarian and Halal options.

› Think leading academics

Our academics have won awards, published books and achieved some amazing things – but most importantly they're committed to helping you learn.

More than 75 per cent of our staff also hold a doctorate degree by research or coursework, so you're supported by top academics from around the globe, benefitting from their experience, knowledge and networks of contacts to help launch your own career.

“I am proud of studying in Australia and especially at Murdoch University. I love the lecturers because they are great people and always motivate the students to create new ideas and think critically. The university environment has enough green parks around the campus, so students not only study and meet with groups in the library, but also outside. Honestly, I love the environment.”

- Hardin, Murdoch University Alumni

➤ Indonesian students on campus

Led by a very strong team of undergraduate and postgraduate students, the Murdoch University Indonesian Students Association (MUISA) is one of the most active student groups on the Perth campus, serving to elevate awareness of their homeland and its cultural traditions among fellow students and staff. MUISA are actively involved in a myriad of activities every year, including but not limited to; Murdoch's Multicultural Festival, Lebaran celebrations, Indonesia Merdeka Day, Iftar gatherings and the University Open Days. They have also contributed significantly to the broader Western Australian community in spreading awareness about the uniqueness of Indonesian culture, through the MUISA angklong group which runs classes for the public, and through Indonesian cultural workshops that they regularly present at high schools and state level multicultural events.
